

Ranked in Top 10 Agents

by Sports Illustrated & USA Today

"I'm not interested in just being your agent. I'm interested in developing a life plan for you. Players really need somebody who is going to play a bigger role than just helping them with their contract. If that agent isn't going to be a mentor and a friend and give them some guidance for many years beyond the NFL, the player really misses the boat."

— Jordan Woy

Jordan Woy, Agent

Jordan Woy is a veteran sports agent, representing more than 400 professional athletes in his 25-year career. Sports Illustrated & USA Today have ranked Jordan as one of the top ten football agents in the professional football industry. Jordan has a proven history of obtaining top-dollar contracts, lucrative endorsements, and ancillary income for clients. He also works closely with each client to expose them to opportunities beyond the playing field.

Theotis Brown, Director of Collegiate Recruitment

A former NFL running back, Theotis identifies potential NFL-bound student athletes, overseeing and coordinating the development of long-term strategies, and preparing players for successful combine performances. Theotis provides invaluable experience, leadership, and direction to future pro players, which greatly benefits our client athletes and their families.

"At an event with Jordan in 1991 I met several real estate developers and it hit me that these guys are living better than I am and they've never signed a professional contract. They must be doing something right! Jordan helped get me started with them and the rest is history."

Ray Crockett

14-year NFL veteran. Ray has built a multi-million dollar real estate business since his retirement in 2002.

"Jordan brings opportunities to the forefront and it's up to you to make the decision. Willis & Woy's business contacts allow you to continue to be successful after your football career is over. These Business Networking trips they take us on are a chance to have fun and to continue to educate ourselves. I've been on about five trips and as long as Jordan is my agent, I'll be on everyone of them."
